Workshop Announcement

Asynchronous Information Literacy Instruction
MILEX 2024 Fall Workshop
Friday, December 6, 2024, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.
Online via Zoom

Join us at this year's MILEX Fall Workshop to explore ways academic librarians can best engage in asynchronous teaching and learning.

To receive a link for this workshop, RSVP: https://forms.gle/X8K7qy1g1w7HBhZ96
This workshop is members-only and free of charge.

Presenters: Eric Kowalik and Katie Greer

Eric Kowalik is author of "Leveraging Online Tutorials and Performance Assessment to Improve Information Literacy Instruction" and a Digital Technology and Design Specialist at Marquette University, where he collaborates with faculty and librarians to develop interactive online learning objects for stand-alone instruction or integration into program curricula. Before joining Marquette, he was a web developer at the University of California, Irvine. He earned his bachelor's degree in journalism and history and his MA in Communication from Marquette University. He also earned his MS in Instructional Design and Technology from California State University, Fullerton.

Katie Greer is author of "A Pedagogy of Care for Information Literacy and Metaliteracy Asynchronous Online Instruction" and a Professor in OU Libraries at Oakland University in Rochester, Michigan. She holds her BA in English from Aquinas College, her MA in Art History from the University of Notre Dame, her MLIS from Drexel University, and is working on her PhD in Educational Leadership from Oakland University. Her research interests include information literacy for an information-disordered world, visual literacy, feminist/critical pedagogies, and sustainability leadership.

Please contact Brandy Whitlock, Workshop Committee Chair, with questions at chair@milexmd.org.

The Maryland Information Literacy Exchange (MILEX) is a collaborative of Maryland academic librarians promoting information literacy in higher education.